INTRODUCTION

Ansia, panico, paura, angoscia, fobia: emozioni al centro della salvaguardia della vita, ma anche fonte di malessere e disagio, sofferenza e dolore psichico. Il 3° Convegno organizzato da IPD (Italian Psychoanalytic Dialogues) e NPSA (International Neuropsychanalysis Society), con il patrocinio della Società Psicoanalitica Italiana e dell' International Psychoanalytical Association, propone nuove riflessioni sulle dinamiche conscie e inconscie dell'emergenza dell'ansia, del panico e dell'angoscia nella complessa interazione tra funzionamento neuronale e processi psichici. Il dialogo tra il Neuroscienziato Joseph Le Doux e lo Psicoanalista Stefano Bolognini (Presidente IPA 2013-2017) affronterà l'origine e l'evoluzione dell'ansia e della paura. Saranno oggetto di riflessione la sua peculiarità nella specie umana, le sue declinazioni (panico, angoscia, fobia), secondo un duplice vertice di osservazione, neuroscientifico e psicoanalitico, nella teoria quanto nella clinica. Nella sessione dedicata al trattamento Mark Solms (Presidente NPSA) e Annamaria Nicolò (Presidente SPI) intervisteranno sul tema del Convegno diversi esperti del settore portando il dibattito sulle diverse modalità di intervento: da quello psicoanalitico, a quello psicoterapico, da quello cognitivista a quello psicofarmacologico.

Anxiety, panic, fear, angst, phobia: emotions at the forefront in order to save our lives but also sources of discomfort and uneasiness, suffering and psychic pain. The 3rd Conference organized by Italian Psychoanalytic Dialogues (I.P.D.) and International Neuropsychanalysis Society (NPSA), with the endorsements of the Italian Psychoanalytic Society (SPI) and the International Psychoanalytical Association (IPA), will address the conscious and unconscious dynamics underlying the emergence of anxiety, panic and angst, illustrating the recent neuroscientific contributions to the understanding of the complex interactions between neuronal functioning and psychic processes. The dialogue between the neuroscientist Joseph Le Doux and the psychoanalyst Stefano Bolognini (IPA President 2013-2017) will focus on the origins and transformations of anxiety and fear, with specific attention to their peculiarities in the human species and their evolution into panic, angst and phobias but from two different viewpoints, the neuroscientific and the psychoanalytic ones as well as from a theoretical and clinical perspective. On the second day of the Congress, focused on treatment Mark Solms (NPSA President) and Anna Niccolò (SPI President) will promote a discussion among several experts on the different current treatment of anxiety: from psychoanalysis to psychotherapy, from a cognitivist approach to psychopharmacology.
